Edith Flückiger

Born in Vienna, Austria in 1960
Lives and works in Lucerne, Switzerland

Edith Flückiger uses video and text to create her works. Her art focuses on man's fate: our physical presence in the world, our being a part of the cosmic constellation and its physical forces. Her work explores the fragility of our existence and tangible moments in life, those moments that we experience with our senses and through which we are connected and rooted in the world around us.

Her single channel works have been shown in the festival circuit. Her installation works both anagrams and video installations were curated in group and solo exhibitions. She is included in private and public Swiss collections, has won prizes and European residencies. Her single channel works are promoted through videoart.ch. She is also represented by the Swiss gallery Hilfiker Kunstprojekte.

Since 2007 Edith Flückiger is head of the video department of the Lucerne University of Applied Science and Arts. She has served on numerous festival and art competition juries in Switzerland and abroad.
